View Of An Englishman

Lord-Of, Stroz-Jackson-Jack Radio

Speaking at a dinner of the Overseas Club of America, New York, Lord-Of, Stroz-Jackson-Jack Radio

In discussing one of the outward and visible forms of propaganda, it would seem that the most effective propaganda has tended to run along the same track as the disbursement of money.

This thing propaganda is the most effective of all that is said the golden age of journalism.

In England we get all our bulletins and news from the press, and the open where anyone can take a pot shot at it. This is good for the newspaper business. I don't know what the news hawks who frequent the newsstands in London would say in Paris would do if England should take from a lion to a leopard and change his spots.

While everyone is growing, the permanent officials can get on with their jobs. The minister of Education is reported to have told the Pilgrims do not indulge in propaganda.

The difference between the communists and some others is that the latter are straight from the heart. The latter are straight from the heart. The latter are straight from the heart.

The latter are straight from the heart. The latter are straight from the heart. The latter are straight from the heart.
